BARRETT AND STELLE TOLD TO UNLOOSEN

Atty. General Tells Officials They've Gone Too Far

Chicago, April 4.—(AP)—Attorney General Otto Kerner held today that refusal of State Treasurer John Stelle and Auditor Edward J. Barrett to issue March pay checks to state employees must be limited to the "payroll padders" they charge swell the employment list.

But a further delay in issuing the checks was indicated when Barrett to whom the opinion was specifically addressed, said he would need some interpretation from the attorney general.

Kerner's opinion said employees not under suspicion as "padders" must promptly be paid. This proved the contention point, Barrett explaining:

"Under our office practice, if we find a doubtful name on a list of employees we must hold up the entire list. I shall ask the attorney general if his opinion requires me to change this practice."

Reiterates Charges.

Barrett went on to repeat the charges made by Stelle when the checks were blocked, declaring, "I know some of the names submitted are those of persons who have done no work for the state."

Stelle charged some 3,000 of the code department payroll were put on by Governor Henry Horner's administration for political work in the heated Democratic primary campaign.

Barrett, like Stelle, is a political opponent of Horner. The two finance officers of the state, along with Attorney General Kerner, are candidates on the "regular" Democratic ticket, which Horner is battling.

Barrett said he would pay "without delay" all "regular" employees, known to this office if the code department heads would submit "revised payrolls."

Some 32,000 state employees missed their regular April 1 payday because of the sensational move by Stelle and Barrett, but the latter denied the finance officers were entirely to blame.

"A number of departments failed to submit payroll vouchers to me," he said. "My office has directly held up only about 5,000 checks."

AUDITORIUM AT DIXON HIGH TO BE VERY MODERN

Completion of Hall to Seat 1,171 Expected by May 27th

The large auditorium of the Dixon high school is the scene of a great deal of activity as contractors are now in the midst of the completion program. The time limit for completion of the work has been set for May 27 and the exercises marking the graduation of the 1936 class of students will in all probability mark the first activity in the auditorium this summer. A force of 25 men is at work at the present time and is making rapid progress on the $65,000 improvement which is being carried on under a federal public works administration program, under which 45 per cent of the cost is assumed by the federal government.

Among the interesting parts of the work are the ornamental trimmings and figures. Lido Romanelli of Chicago, expert plaster cast designer, is in charge of this detail of the project. One section of the large room is used by Romanelli and his corps of assistants in preparing the casts and moulds for the plaster ornamental trimmings.

To Seat 1,171

Throughout the large room, the work is of the latest and most modern type of construction and when completed will be thoroughly fire proof and will complete the original architectural plans of the high school structure. Contracts for the seating arrangement, the stage equipment and stage lighting will be awarded next week the final stage in the completion of the auditorium. The auditorium is expected to afford a seating capacity of 1,171 opera chairs.

When the present project is completed the auditorium will be

CLOSED AT LAST

Busy 'Phone Line Nearly Sent Hauptmann to Chair Tuesday Night it is Said

Jury Request for Delay Received at Death Hour

Trenton, N. J., April 4.—(AP)—The dramatic nearness of Bruno Hauptmann's death last Tuesday night, the imminence of another reprieve yesterday—both were disclosed today after the convicted kidnaper-killer of the Lindbergh baby died in the electric chair.

A busy telephone line, last Tuesday night, nearly prevented completion of the telephone call that spared Hauptmann's life for 72 hours.

The Mercer county grand jury, unfinished in its investigation of the repudiated Wendel confession, asked a delay of the execution. The clock showed the hour for Hauptmann's death. The telephone call was put through, but the line was busy. It was an excited few minutes before the operator was prevailed upon to break the connection and put through the life-saving message.

Second Reprieve Unsigned

Yesterday, authoritative sources disclosed, Gov. Harold Hoffman had prepared the order for another reprieve.

It was never signed. While the order was being drafted by a secretary, the governor was conferring with his political opponent, Attorney General David T. Wilentz, the prosecutor of the Hauptmann case.

They discussed the legality of another reprieve without rancor, despite the nervous tension.

Earnestly, the governor renewed his contention that it was scarcely believable the crime was the work of one man, that accomplices should be sought in a continuing active police investigation, that testimony against Hauptmann was questionable, particularly that of identification witnesses and that the convicted man's life should be spared until the apparent confusion was removed.

Didn't Advise Governor

Wilentz, it was disclosed, refrained from advising the governor he could, or could not, grant a second reprieve, but reminded the governor of his advice in January, when the first reprieve was granted.

At that time Wilentz told the governor he believed his reprieve powers lapsed 90 days after Hauptmann's conviction at Flemington in February, 1935.

Worried lines formed on the governor's face and he rubbed his chin thoughtfully as he talked, but when the decision was made his smile returned and he and Wilentz were laughing over a pleasant when the conference ended.

In the preparation of the statement, announcing there would not

Three Men Have Filed Claims for Reward in Slayer

Trenton, N. J., April 4.—(AP)—New Jersey, which placed a $25,000 reward on the head of the man who killed Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., now must decide who put the finger on Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

The pay-off man is Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, who was authorized under a law approved two months after the 1932 kidnap-murder, to pay the reward "at his discretion" for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the kidnaper or kidnappers.

The governor will probably seek the advice of Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, who directed the long investigation which ended in Hauptmann's arrest, and Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted him.

Three men have filed formal petitions to share in the reward. They are William B. Strong, a teller in the Mount Morris branch of the Corn Exchange Bank & Trust Co., New York City; Walter V. Lyle, manager of a New York City gas station; and John Lyons, an attendant at the same station. They base their claims on the identification of the $10 gold note that led to Hauptmann's arrest.

Payment of the money, when the reward is voted, must await appropriation by the legislature, for the actual cash was never set aside.

be another reprieve, it was learned authoritatively. Wilentz suggested curtailing to eliminate an exposition of the governor's view of the Hauptmann case.

Commended Hoffman

When released, it contained merely their differing views on the expiration date of the governor's reprieve powers, which Wilentz said ended in mid-March, this year—90 days after the Supreme Court refused to review the case and his belief

BRUNO'S FINAL MINUTES SPENT PRAYING ALONE

"Now I Am Ready," Last Words to Guards and Two Ministers

Trenton, N. J., April 4.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann asked for "just a minute to myself" and, kneeling quietly on the cement floor of his cell prayed quietly for ten minutes before starting his death walk.

Then he said: "I am ready."

He was reciting the 23rd Psalm as, with his two spiritual advisors, he walked into the little chamber to his death.

The Rev. John Matthiesen, one of his advisors, described Hauptmann's last few minutes and said his last wish was that his body be cremated. This will be done.

Ministers With Him

Matthiesen and the Rev. D. G. Werner, another advisor, read to Hauptmann in his death house cell, reading portions of the Old Testament, Isaiah 53 and of the New Testament, John 21.

A few minutes before he left his cell he said to his two companions:

"Let me have just a minute to myself."

Then, said Matthiesen, he knelt down on the cement floor and prayed quietly for about ten minutes.

"He turned his face toward us and said, 'Now I am ready,'" the minister related. He said Hauptmann shook hands with the ministers and four guards in the death house and walked toward the door clasping the hands of his advisors.

Last Words He Heard

The three men softly repeated the 23rd Psalm until they reached the execution chamber. Then, the ministers read the last words Hauptmann could have heard—

Slayer of Lindberghs' Baby Showed No Signs of Fear as He Met Death

Last Minute Effort to Save Hauptmann Proved Futile

BY DALE HARRISON

(Copyright, 1936, by The AP)

By The Associated Press

Trenton, N. J., April 4.—"This man is dead."

With those words, spoken by a physician in the crowded prison death house at 8:47:30 last night, was told the end of New Jersey's case against the Lindbergh baby killer—the end of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

He died as most people thought he would—unspeaking, unshaken, cold, unsmiling.

A mile and a half away, in a hotel, his weary wife—his widow now—cried piteously, unconsoled: "Oh, God, why did you have to do this?"

There was no hysteria, no breakdown, no tears inside the dirty, white four walls where Anna Hauptmann's "Poor Richard" sat down to death.

Showed No Fear

"I am not afraid to die," he had written Gov. Harold G. Hoffman only last Tuesday. If he was, he did not show it.

Fifty-five witnesses saw him go, fifty-five, and one other: Robert Elliott, whose steady hand spun the wheel of the reostat.

There was another man there, the tall, military warden, Col. Mark O. Kimberling. It was not among them all whom the law charged with executing the death sentence. He did not see Hauptmann die.

He stood facing the chair and the hooded figure in it. He gave the nod that signalled the current be turned on. But his head was bowed when the volts struck. He looked up only when the prison physician intoned:

"This man is dead."

Made Sure of Death

They made very sure of it, too. Six doctors, one at a time, stepped forward, listened for the tremor of the heart of a man who could kidnap and kill a little baby, then stepped back.

Twice they did this.

Then, as though still not sure that the lightning thrusts of 2,000 volts had done their work, the doctors conferred around the chair in which the body sagged against the weight of the restraining straps.

Hauptmann was dead. Dr. Howard Weisler announced it.

Col. Kimberling raised his head. His eyes pointed at a large clock which a guard had been holding aloft throughout the death house drama.

"It is 8:47 and one-half," he said.

Must Have Died Before

That will go down as the official time that the 36-year-old German-born carpenter died. But he must have died long before that; perhaps he died that night in Flemington, February 13, 1935, when a jury of country folk—eight men and four women—found him guilty of having murdered Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.; if not then, he must surely have died when the Court of Errors and Appeals turned a deaf ear to his plea for a new trial, when the United States Supreme Court wrote a terse "denied" across his appeal, or when the Court of Pardons twice refused to grant him mercy.

Never, though, was his armor of iron nerves pierced. There were times during the torturing eighteen months that extended between his arrest in the Bronx, New York, and ernor Harold G. Hoffman's office announced today he would press for a legislative investigation of the handling of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder case, now that Bruno Richard Hauptmann is dead.

At the same time, the governor took the first step to close the books of the Lindbergh case itself. He directed Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, to submit to him recommendations for payment of the $25,000 reward for the "apprehension and conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann."

The state legislature, in May 1932, offered the reward. Three men have filed claims for it.

Earlier today, there was a growing belief in Trenton that Hauptmann's execution last night would quiet demands for a legislative investigation of the case.

Candidacy Challenged

But William S. Conklin, the governor's press aide, said the governor would confer Monday with Assemblyman John Kerner, Union Republican, and ask him to introduce the already-drafted resolution for a thorough investigation both of his own activities in the Hauptmann case and the conduct of the whole kidnaping inquiry.

The governor also struck back sharply at critics of his candidacy for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention in June.

"When a governor makes a mockery of our courts and juries and drags his high office into the mire," Fort said, "I cannot remain silent."

his death last night that he wept. But he never broke.

Even when he died there remained something of the mysterious aloofness that marked his months as a prisoner. His body stiffened, seemed to hunch when the current—21½ horsepower of electricity—struck.

Body Didn't Slump

But not afterward did the body slump.

It appeared to the witnesses to hold itself erect, as though even in death the iron nerves defied the law that had plagued them so long.

They said Hauptmann had hoped to the very moment they came to take him to the death room that he would be spared once more. Gov. Harold Hoffman was the power he believed would save him—Gov. Hoffman who had saved him last January with a 30-day reprieve.

There was reason for his hope. The governor had on his desk a reprieve, properly filled out. He had wanted to sign it, not because he believed Hauptmann innocent of the century's most infamous crime, but because he believed there were many hidden mysteries of the case still unexplored.

Laid Reprieve Aside

It wasn't until half an hour before the time fixed for Hauptmann's execution that the governor finally laid the reprieve aside—unsigned. His reluctant decision not to intervene came after a long conference with Attorney-General David T. Wilentz.

With another touch of the sinister irony that has never seemed to leave the Lindbergh case, it was Wilentz, Hauptmann's legal Nemesis, who offered a road of escape late yesterday.

"If the governor should issue an order of reprieve," the Attorney-General told Warden Kimberling five hours before the execution time, "you must obey it."

The Attorney-General said the governor had no reprieve powers, but that if he should assume such powers it was not up to the warden to challenge him.

Pointed Door to Escape

Thus the door to escape from Hauptmann was opened by the man who had exorcised him as "public enemy number one of the world" at the Flemington trial. It needed only the key in the hand of Gov. Hoffman to open it; yet it remained closed.

"I am without power to grant a further stay," the governor said.

If the Attorney-General had agreed to a second reprieve, it is most likely the governor would have

OUR NEW NAVAL TREATY

Washington, London and Paris have concluded signing a new naval treaty under which none of the parties agrees to anything except that, in case one of the signatory countries finds it wise to do so, it may throw the whole paper out the window.

This treaty, such as it is, succeeds the Washington naval treaty which established a ratio of 5-5-3 with Great Britain and the United States getting the 5. That treaty expires this year.

Coupled with the present treaty, we suspect, is an understanding that Great Britain and the United States will not strive to outdo each other in the matter of ship-building. What the English and Americans build in the future will depend somewhat upon what the Germans and Italians build as against the British, and what Japan builds as against the United States.

Now that the Japanese achieve racial and cultural equality with the United States and Britain with expiration of the Washington treaty, they seem unable to decide what to do with it. Only recently they desired to know what the United States intends to do about fortifying her Pacific possessions and the Philippines. To date we have no information as to whether the United States government has enlightened them.

The situation in the Pacific is this: If the United States has a strongly fortified naval base in the neighborhood of the Philippines, the Japanese theoretically can not attack the United States or the Hawaiian islands. Conversely, to attack the United States, the Japanese would need a strongly fortified naval base at the Hawaiian islands or preferably closer. If the Japs had such a base, it would make it difficult for the Americans to attack Nippon.

So if the United States establishes an impregnable base at the Philippines it would be possible, theoretically, for us to attack Japan, but it would be impossible for them to attack us without first demolishing the Philippine outpost and then establishing themselves within proper cruising range of California and the Panama canal. This is a first-class advantage for the United States and it is causing our little brown neighbors no end of worry.

The United States appears ready to relinquish some of its power in the Canal Zone, which may or may not have some influence upon our naval proceedings at the Philippines. We sometimes get the impression that our naval rebuilding program is intended not primarily to strengthen our national defense, but to spend money.

Other things being equal, continued friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain will see our navy expanded to approximate parity with Britain's, and the Japanese, for the immediate present, strengthening their navy against soviet Russia's fleet of submarines.

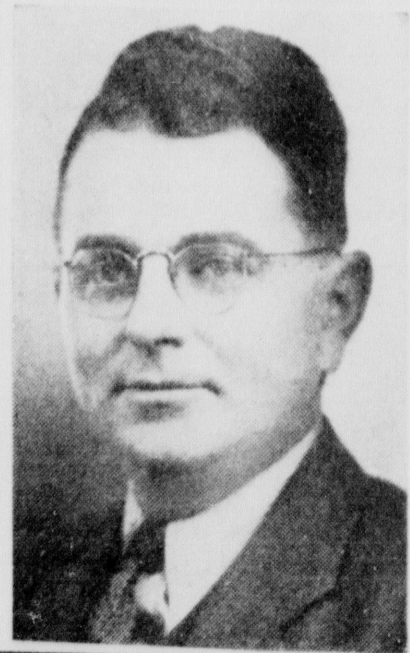

One of the advantages of this new treaty, which is not a treaty, is that while it concedes American parity with Great Britain, it does not compel it. The British are having a great time worrying about the Italian sea-sleds. These naval creatures are small hulls with their interiors filled entirely with gasoline engines for power and torpedoes for armament. Since the British have had their fleet in the Mediterranean these highly explosive boats have been coming abruptly out of nowhere to slither alongside the English bulldogs while the Italian occupants shout Ahoy, or Tallyho, or whatever it is an Italian shouts to an Englishman, and then disappear. Such a performance in a fast boat laden with enough torpedoes to blow the Englishmen into the seventh heaven before they could even draw a bead is disconcerting. It makes the British sailors' hair stand up and causes parliament to increase its naval appropriations to a point which even the United States might not feel required to meet.

ment and about budget balancing—some day—and about such things as were intended to divert attention from the terrible waste of the people's money as election approached.

Well, the economies have been outvoted.

The senate, which now is elected by popular vote, is responding devotedly to the demands of the voters for more money in their respective states. You can always depend upon the senate in a case like that.

The house committee on appropriations appeared to take the economy talk seriously and it really accomplished something, but the house is only half of the legislative machine.

These economies made by the house committee were given wide publicity. It was good stuff when the administration was feeling public condemnation for wasting the substance of the people, with an election coming on. Putting back what the house took off has not been so widely advertised. We noted a few days ago that the senate had put back a million dollars for resumption of planting of the shelter belt out in the Great American desert, a belt of trees to extend a hundred miles wide from Canada to Texas. But that is only a trifling amount compared with what the total will be when the senate is through.

The senate has increased the house appropriation bills by $2,179,000,000! That is more than 2 billions of dollars.

It reminds us of the reductions put into effect in the early part of the administration. Piece by piece the gains were eliminated, and instead of having economies we had the greatest spending administration the country ever has known.

The trouble with the spending program is that it always increases and never decreases until the catastrophe comes.

Story by

HAL COCHRAN

GEORGE SCARBO

"Hey, stop," the bunch heard Dotty scream. "Poor Duncy's flopped into the stream. I guess he hooked a monstrous fish that proved to be too strong."

"That lad can get into a mess, no matter what he does, I guess. We might have known, with him aboard, that something would go wrong."

Brave Scouty held his paddle still, deep in the little stream, until the small boat stopped, and then he cried, "Hey, lad, are you all right?" "I'll jump right in and rescue you if you are scared and want me to. Let go of your small fish line and you'll end your sudden fright!"

"Oh, no," snapped Duncy. "I won't quit. I'm going to hang right on to it until the fish gets tired out. Then I'll drag him to our boat."

"The rest of you be ready, now. I'm going to land this fish, somehow. Please paddle our canoe up close, and keep the thing afloat."

Then came a very funny sight. The fish put up a lot of fights, and Duncy was flopped all around. This made the Twymanites roar.

Cried Coppy, "Better rush toward land, and keep the fish line in your hand. I have a hunch you cannot stand that flopping 'round much more."

"Oh, yes I can," snapped Duncy. "Gee, this fish won't get the best of me! I have more strength than he has. I am pretty sure of that."

The battle went on for a spell. The Twymanites heard Duncy yell, "Get ready, now, each one of you, to cheer and wave your hat."

"The fish has stopped the jerking and, in 'bout a moment, I will land us all a dandy dinner. Watch me closely, while I try."

The fish was pulled up to his side. "Oh, what a beauty," Goldy cried. Then Duncy grabbed a hold of him and hoisted him in the air.

(All of the Twymanites make for the shore in the next story.)

WHAT THE NEWS WAS AROUND DIXON IN YEARS GONE BY

50 YEARS AGO

We are informed that there are no homes, at least desirable residences, for rent in this city. This certainly speaks well for the prosperity of Dixon.

The widow of the late Rev. John Davidson passed away at her home in North Dixon yesterday, aged 75 years.

On Saturday, Joseph F. Palmer and Thomas Morgan were elected members of the board of education.

25 YEARS AGO

George Prescott was elected supervisor of Dixon township yesterday in a close race against A. C. Moeller, winning by a plurality of 26 votes.

10 YEARS AGO

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Mrs. Jacob Egler, formerly of Dixon, who passed away Saturday at her home in Chicago.

should be considered potentially dangerous. A mole which is increasing in size, which stands out above the general surface of the skin, or which bleeds readily, should also be considered dangerous.

Under no circumstances should such a mole, or for that matter any mole, be treated with a caustic.

Treatment, when required, should be administered by a competent physician, preferably one who has experience in dealing with this type of condition.

The safest and most satisfactory treatment is surgical excision. Naturally, when the mole is small this procedure is neither painful nor disfiguring. If malignancy is suspected, wide surgical excision may be required.

The cancer resulting from the malignant degeneration of pigmented moles is of a serious type, but fortunately, its frequency is not great.

"He Has Gone."
The following poem was written by the late Bela Halderman in the obituary for Mr. Frank Swingley.

His mother, Mrs. Jennie Halderman, requested us to send it in our items:

"He is dead," they say, but it isn't true
For his spirit abides and is now with you;
And the span of life, with the tick of Time,
Has been faithfully lived with a joy sublime.

Just a loving one in a scene of strife,
Has now entered the haven of happy life;
He has left his friends in a realm we know,
Where the flesh is weak, in a world of woe.

In the few short years of his struggle here,
All the good he has scattered with love and cheer,
And the deeds of valor and kindness,
Will be ever remembered and always bless.

But he isn't dead; he has simply gone
Just beyond the mist-curtains of golden dawn,
To that land aglow with the peace of light,
Where the souls so serene rest in deep delight.

A. U. THOMAS.
Word has been received here of the death of A. U. Thomas. He died suddenly at 2 P. M. Monday at McAlester, Okla., after a short illness.

Mr. Thomas was born 70 years ago in Franklin Grove, grew to young manhood here and was known by all as "Abe Thomas." About 42 years ago he was married to Miss Margaret Curtiss of Stockton. Thirty-five years ago he became cashier of the American National bank of South McAlester. He retired from the banking business many years ago to become a partner in a firm dealing in oil lands and leases. At the time of his death he was a director of the Federal Land Bank of Topeka, Kansas.

Besides his widow he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Cornelia Ennega, Preepert; two grandsons; two sisters, Mrs. Julia Eastwood of Rockford and Mrs. Nina Crane of Loma Linda, Calif.; and a brother Evans Thomas, Salem, Oregon.

The Thomas family resided where Mr. and Mrs. Joel Senger now live. His three sisters, the Misses Mary and Hattie Thomas, preceded him in death.

Girl Scouts.
The Woman's Club has rented the room back of Mr. Dierdorff's shop for the Girl Scouts to meet in.

EDITORIAL.
By Bob Wasson.

Mother Nature sat musing by the fire. She had made quite a little world. By this trial and error method she had caused several cycles, merging with one another in sympathy. But soon the novelty and beauty of it lost its charm. The cycles must be made with variation. As it was, everything lived, fought and died. There had to be some thing more. So she made man.

He was to be a little more intelligent than the rest. His job was to master the others, to make them do nature's bidding and thereby relieve her of the load. But she made one mistake. She gave him too many brains.

He learned to use and control fire with which he burned wood that she had put there for some other purpose, to make coal or to fertilize the ground to grow her plants. He left ashes in quantities she could not use. Sometimes fires got out of control and burned down woods in which her large cycles moved. Then she came to the conclusion that this mistake had gone far enough. So she sent floods, tornadoes, storms, famine, etc. But to her consternation she found man's intelligence permitted him to prepare against these ravages.

He began to spread his territory until he came to the sea, which baffled him for a long time but was finally conquered. The spreading movement, although it divided her enemy, meant all the more storms she would have to send and not only storms, but other furies of nature: She has finally settled down to deal diplomatically with this Frankenstein.

Spectator.
We note, with great amusement, that the Ashton and Paw Paw high school notes copied our idea of "Life is a Song." Imitation is the most sincere form of flattery.

Well the carnival is over, but everybody has memories of it. Mine concern the amount of confetti discovered on the bedroom floor the next morning.

Question: Where did two juniors disappear to after the carnival?
All the teachers were treated to liberal doses of confetti. It makes youthful again.

Prof. had more confetti thrown at his than the rest put together.

It was a pleasure to toes it at "Dear Teacher."

Mr. Fox was forced to be absent from school Tuesday because of a severely sprained ankle.

The manual training boys and Ag boys would like to express their thanks to the German Band for playing the students who aided with the features, Lou Durkes and Clark Phillips for aiding in the ping pong matches and the merchants who made possible much of the advertising.

The carnival was a great success, as everybody present will agree. Over $150 was cleared for the use of the Ag and manual arts classes in buying new equipment. Again, —thank you!

Music Contest Held
The Glee club and soloists of the high school are busy this week in preparation for the annual music contest which will be held at Mt. Morris, Saturday, April 4. Thursday morning a short program consisting of contest numbers was presented to the students of the high school by these groups.

Home Economics
The home management students commenced a new unit of study this week, on planning and furnishing of homes. Notebooks, consisting of floor plans, essential of good housing and costs, are being carefully worked out.

Clothing students who have completed their cotton dresses, and have been working on curtains for the Home Economics room, will commence their new projects this week.

The value of an ancient history course—To take ancient history is indeed a privilege. Some students have excused, such as "Oh, other subjects are easier." After all, since we do come to school to learn, we should not choose a subject because "it's easy."

Ancient History is a study of ancient people—the people who made our world of today. It tells of their works in art, literature and science. It relates their struggles, their hardships, and their weaknesses. It brings to life men who have up to this time been only names. Perhaps the greatest value of the course is that of giving you a background which makes later histories and current social problems easier to understand. A wider, fuller knowledge of your world is acquired from an ancient history course.

Father and Son Banquet
From the proceeds of the carnival the F. F. A. members are sponsoring a father and son banquet. At the last meeting the following boys were appointed on the committees:

Arrangement—Raymond Patterson, Gerald Emmert and Marvin Brown.

Program—Dale Yocum, James Heath and Robert Mattern.

Decorating—John Hain, Howard Greenfield, Marvin Brown and Wesley Herwig.

Clean-Up—Varvin Brown, Wesley Herwig, John Schaefer, Lloyd Bucher and Floyd Frizzle.

The date for the banquet has been set for April 24.

The probable speaker will be Mr. Nolan from the University of Illinois. Mr. Nolan is at the head of the vocational agriculture teaching at the university.

G. A. A. Meeting.
Last Thursday due to the weather, the girls met downstairs where they were entertained by Pauline Kelly and her squad, after many exciting and interesting games were played, refreshments consisting of popcorn and apples were served. A good time is reported by all.

Track Meet.
The track meet which was to be held today is postponed until next Wednesday, April 8th, when it is to be held at Amboy. This meet, the first of the season, was not announced previously because arrangements were sudden. Amboy has arranged for a dual meet with us at Amboy. Last year one was held in which we were beaten by one point. Better luck this time.

Ping Pong Tournament.
One of the feature events of the carnival was a series of matches of Ashton and Franklin ping pong players. We took six of the nine games played and won three out of four matches played.

Patterson playing against Eckhart won his first two games. Wendell playing against Messer lost his first two. Snyder playing against Sachs won two out of three and Studebaker against Arnold won his first two.

Franklin players welcomed the opportunity and we hope to play again next year. One of the highlights of the ping pong tournament was a match between Choppy and Lou. They showed us how to do it! They seemed nervous. We hope the Ashton students who came over had a good time before, at the carnival.

School Carnival Huge Success.
The carnival held at the local high school last Friday evening was a complete success, from the standpoint of both finance and fun.

Approximately 300 people attended the carnival, and the total amount of money taken in during the evening came to nearly $200.00.

This is not all clear profit but it represents the total receipts of the evening's entertainment.

The building was literally alive with people, young and old alike, gaily throwing confetti and watching the various side shows, some of which were a vaudeville, of dancing, music and acting, also exhibits by the manual training, clothing and grade school art departments. These exhibits were all very interesting and they show what fine work is being done by our young people.

Other features of the carnival consisted of boxing matches and a ping pong tournament between Franklin Grove and Ashton, won by the Franklin boys with three sets out of four. These sports drew a good many of the interested fans.

One of the big hits of the evening came in the form of a midget show presented by the primary grades. This show featured a mock wedding staged by the primary pupils.

After several hours of hilarious fun the spectators returned to the assembly room where the door prizes were awarded to Julia Moulton, Eleanor Yocum and James Reed.

A great deal of the credit for this successful evening's entertainment goes to the members of the vocational agriculture and manual training departments for their sponsorship of such a pleasant and successful carnival.

Woman's Club Meeting
The Franklin Grove Woman's club will meet Monday afternoon, April 6th at 2:15 P. M. Roll call.

Current events. Mrs. O. H. Rahn, district president will be present and give a talk. A program of music both instrumental and vocal will be held. Election of officers will be held at this meeting. Hostesses, Mrs. L. A. Trottnow, Mrs. George Hawbecker and Mrs. W. L. Moore.

Annual Meeting
Members and friends and their families enjoyed a most delightful evening at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening. All were seated at tables and a most delicious supper and hour of fellowship was enjoyed. Following the supper the company assembled in the church auditorium where the annual meeting was held.

Clarence Miller was re-elected trustee.

Sunday school superintendent—Lewis Meyer.

Assistant superintendent—Wilbur Dyart.

Secretary—Harold Buck.

Assistant secretary—Georgia Peterman.

Treasurer—Mrs. Bessie Schaefer.

Chorister—George Miller.

Assistant chorister—Georgia Peterman.

Pianist—Mrs. Will Black.

Memorial Service for Miss Florence Bissel
A memorial service will be held Easter Sunday, April 12th at 3:00 o'clock P. M. at the Lighthouse Methodist church in honor of the late Miss Florence Bissel, well known among residents of this community. Miss Bissel died several weeks ago at Tempe, Arizona, where she in company with her sister had been spending the winter with relatives.

Will Broadcast
Mrs. Herbert Parker, president of Lee County Federation of Woman's clubs will broadcast from station WROK at Rockford Monday April 6th at 4:30 P. M. Her subject will be "The Federated Clubs of Lee County." Every club member will want to hear this interesting subject discussed.

Men's Club
The March meeting of the Men's club was held Tuesday evening in the Church of the Brethren, where a most tempting dinner was served with you.

In the basement to a large group of men. The menu consisted of ham loaf, mashed potatoes, lima beans, cream cabbage slaw, pickles, bread, jelly, coffee and butterscotch pie. The supper was served by the ladies of the church. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. L. E. Winter of the Methodist church. Following the dinner a spirited sing was led by Rev. Paul Studebaker of the Church of the Brethren. Howard Karper presided at the business meeting. The report of the nominating committee was presented by Rev. O. D. Buck and the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Wm. Herbst.
Vice president—LeRoy Miller.
Sec. Treas.—William Phillips.

Two more were chosen to complete the executive committee. The other members being Wayne Bates and Leland T. Hanson.

President Karper requested Ira Buck to introduce the speaker of the evening who was Missionary Arthur Miller, missionary to India who is here on a year's furlough.

Mr. Miller announced his subject "American Civilization in the Orient". He told in a very interesting manner of the civilization in India which extended back 5000 years before the birth of Christ. He told of the accidental discovery of America when the desire of the navigators was to pick a new and shorter route to India for its valuable trade.

Mr. Miller defended India as being civilized as it was possible to haul gold and silver bullion along its highways on ox carts without the need of a guard, something impossible in America. However Mr. Miller agreed that India was not civilized in all the realms of life. He told of the change in the people of India in the past 40 years. The high caste had no charity for the poor of the famine period of the late 90's but in the recent earthquake all people had risen to help the stricken. Mentioning some of the country he pointed out child marriage as a great affliction. He stated that one-third of the population went to bed hungry at night. The illiteracy of the country was appalling, only 12 per cent of the males and two per cent of the females being able to read and write. He brought out the fact that India turned to America for its ideals and was greatly impressed with American inventions, enterprise, our self government and good will. He stated that India was confused in her thinking by America's change of attitude concerning the liquor question and some of its other vices.

Mr. Miller is a very good talker and his address was well received. This was the last meeting of the Men's club until fall. The meetings have been well attended and the interest has been very good.

7 P. M. Christian Endeavor services. The choir will render some inspiring vocal selections. The pastor will deliver a fitting Palm Sunday evening message. This Sunday evening service will make the beginning of a week of pre-Easter preaching services conducted by the pastor each evening on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 7:30 P. M. There will be special music each evening at these services. Please plan to be present and invite your friends to come with you.

Brethren Notes
Paul B. Studebaker, Pastor
The following is the program to be carried out during our pre-Easter services. This Sunday is Palm Sunday. A fine program has been arranged for the day. Sunday morning the choir will render the beautiful anthem, "Open the Gates of the Temple." It will be worth your while to hear this great inspiring anthem. The words of which were written by Fanny Crosby and the music by Knapp. The pastor will bring an appropriate message. At the evening services Missionary Arthur Miller will give a lecture on his recent visit to the Holy Land. He will illustrate his lecture by means of stereopticon slides. This will give us a very fine setting for the program of the week.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the pastor will preach on the following subjects: "The Last Evening," "The Crucifixion," "The Rent Veil." There will be special music. On Thursday evening the Communion service will be observed.

On Friday evening the great Passion Play will be shown by moving pictures. This is the story of the life of Christ. Every scene taken in the Holy Land and Egypt. In seeing "The Passion Play" you will realize as never before the history of our Lord's passion, the cruelty, the terrible suffering, the profound agony. Not to see it is to miss the opportunity of a lifetime. Thousands of people spend thousands of dollars going over to Oberammergau, to see the Passion Play in a language they do not understand. You can now see it here in your own town next week. There is not an attraction before the world today in the way of entertainment, so realistic, so impressive, soul-stirring, heart-reaching as this wonderful creation in moving pictures form. Rev. Buxton, pastor of the M. E. church of Dixon has a new moving picture projector, he has consented to come and help the local pastor in the work. We are depending on a generous free will offering to meet the expenses. If the size of the crowd demands it, the picture will be run through twice.

COOPER LEADS AUGUSTA LIST GOLF ENTRIES

Jones Fades When He Takes a 78 First Round

Augusta, Ga., April 4.—(AP)—"Lighthouse Harry" Cooper, the slender English-born professional, today was the "dark horse" of the $5,000 Augusta national invitational golf tournament.

The Chicago sharpshooter yesterday paced an all-star field of 53 golfers with a sub-par 70 while a bitter northwest wind was dimming the comeback hopes of Bobby Jones and skyrocketing the scores of a score of leading money players.

Cooper outdistanced the weather for a 35-35, one under par on each side of the "ideally designed course."

Jones, retired world champion and pre-tournament betting favorite at 6 to 1, dropped to a 9-to-1 price after his 78 put him in a tie for 26th in the field. Cooper and Harry Picard, who had a 75, were given the favorite's spot at 6 to 1.

Espinosa Fought Par
Putting together a pair of 36's, Al Espinosa, professional of the Mexico City Country club, was the only other player in the select array of shot makers to give Old Man Par a struggle.

"Distances were awfully hard to judge in that wind," said Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., the bronzed veteran who won the 1935 tournament and yesterday finished in a tie with Jones, his playing partner. "The greens were lightning fast and rough. It's hard to say what the winning score will be if this weather keeps up."

Two strokes behind standard figures and in a three-way tie with 74 were Billy Burke of Cleveland, Horton Smith, the 1934 winner, and lanky Ted Luther of Girard, O. Picard, whose home club is in Hershey, Pa., faded on the incoming nine to take a 40 after going out in 35. He was in a six-way tie at 75 along with Ed Dudley, W. Lawson Little, Jr., of San Francisco, the latest addition to the professional ranks, Alvin (Butch) Krueger of Beloit, Wis., Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., and Ky Laffoon of Chicago.

WRESTLERS OF OKLAHOMA ARE AGAIN IN FORE

Nine Men Running of the Original 15 on the Team

Chicago, April 4.—(AP)—A sturdy band of grapplers from the plains of Oklahoma dominated the picture today as the national A. A. U. wrestling championships entered the semi-final round at De Paul University.

With nine men still in the running out of an original team entry of 15 Oklahoma A. A. U. coaches, by Edward C. Gallagher, were practically certain of team honors in a meet in which the first four places qualify for the final Olympic try out in two weeks at Lehigh University.

Gallagher revealed that the "Aggies" team competing here is his "second team" and that already 12 matmen coached by him have qualified at other meets for the Olympic finals.

Many Still Running
Although the team "Aggies" were the stand out team entered, numerous athletic clubs, industrial organizations and colleges and universities, among them Illinois, Michigan, Temple, Kansas State, Chicago and Northwestern still had contestants in the running.

In the 174 pound division, Ralph Silverstein, Illinois, former national intercollegiate champion, was favored to emerge unbeaten. Ross Flood, national A. A. U. champion in the 123 pound division, and another Oklahoman, Lloyd Atlanta, Ga.—Ben Chapman, the Yankee holdout, is still silent. He said yesterday he was too busy keeping out of the cold to worry much about his contract problem. The Yankees were here today to play Atlanta of the Southern Association.

Memphis, Tenn.—Sam Leslie, Terry's understudy at first base on the Giants squad, is holding his waistline down and making some amazing stops around first base. Not even his most severe critics have ever found anything wrong with his clouting and so it looks like Sambo is going places.

OLYMPIC CAGE CROWN WILL BE DECIDED TODAY

Temple Owls Produce Rousing Battle in Semi-Final

New York, April 4.—(AP)—The American Olympic basketball championship today rested between the McPherson, Kas., Oilers, the University of Washington, Universal Pictures of Hollywood, and Wilmerding, Pa., Y. M. C. A., but the glory for making an unforgettable fight against overpowering odds belonged to Temple University.

Out-measured a half foot per man and routed so decisively at the start that they trailed by 22 points after the first nine minutes, the Owls from Temple had 12,000 spectators in a frenzy last night at Madison Square Garden before finally collapsing under the hopeless load and losing to the towering McPherson Oilers, 56 to 48.

In turning back the Owls, the Oilers, top heavy championship favorites, qualified for the semi-finals. Tonight, they collide with Washington, which demonstrated class by defeating De Paul of Chicago, 54 to 33. In the other semi-final, Wilmerding tackles the strong Universals, runners-up to the Oilers for the national A. A. U. championship. Wilmerding, a last minute substitute for the disqualified Denver Safeways in the tournament, survived with a 62 to 48 conquest over Uta State; Universal Pictures remained in the running with a 40 to 29 victory over the University of Kansas.

AQUATIC STARS ATTACK RECORD PERFORMANCES

Chicago, April 4.—(AP)—An Olympic year's field of swimming greats will make its final assault on an already tattered and torn record book tonight as the annual men's and women's senior indoor championship meet closes in the Lake Shore A. C. pool.

Three afternoons and nights of competition have produced alterations of meet, American or world significance in 10 out of 16 events. Tonight four defending titlholders in individual events—Mrs. Lenore Kight Wingard of Cincinnati, already deprived of one championship; husky Jack Medica of the Washington A. C. of Seattle, seeking his third crown of the meet; Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett of New York, incomparable in the women's backstroke to date, and stately Claudia Eckert of Chicago—will make defenses. The Lake Shore A. C.'s men's medley relay trio will do likewise.

Yielded 220-Yard Race.
Mrs. Wingard, who yielded her 220-yard free style championship to Mary Lou Petty of the Washington A. C., last night, will battle against another powerful field in defense of her 500 yard swim crown. Medica, victor in the 1500 meters and 220-yard free style events, goes after another 500-yard title. Mrs. Jarrett, virtually certain of another triumph in the 100-yard backstroke, will be gunning for a new mark to replace her own 1 minute, 9.6 seconds, which ranks as the best in the book.

Miss Eckert will attempt to add a second straight high board diving championship to her title in the 100-yard free style and a fourth place in the low board event. With Adolph Kiefer, hot shot of the world's back stroke, Max Bryden, that in the breast stroke and several capable free stylists from whom to choose, the host club probably will keep the medley relay title without difficulty.

Medica had to turn on all his power in the last 25 yards last night to hang on to his 220-yard free style title, but managed to get up in time to conquer a rangy Ohio State University freshman, Ralph Gilman, in 2:11.6. John Higgins whittled his own American record of 2 minutes, 43.4 seconds, to 2:39.3 in taking over the 22-yard breast stroke title left vacant by Leonard Spence of the New York A. C. Dick Degner, trim Detroit A. C. diving artist, put together a dazzling series of efforts to retain the high board champion with 185.55 points.

A meeting was held at Glessner's hall at Eldena Thursday night, March 26, at which time the following were elected as directors of the ball club.

Republicans See Maine Standing Behind Col. Knox

Bangor, Me., April 4.—(AP)—Republican leaders forecast today a Maine national convention delegation solidly behind Col. Frank Knox at Cleveland June 9.

The 13 uninstructed delegates chosen in state convention here Thursday would support the newspaper publisher so long as he still had a chance to win the presidential nomination, party chiefs declared.

State Chairman A. Eugene Sewall admitted the possibility that there was one dissenter in the group, but predicted unanimous Knox sentiment by the time the Cleveland convention opened.

Backers of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas were defeated in the convention, a candidate for a district delegate post sponsored by George H. Minott, openly a Landon man being beaten.

Otis F. Glenn, seeking the Republican nomination for attorney general at Chicago: "This New Deal administration has been keeping the people in the dark about what we may expect in the matter of additional taxation x x x until after election."

Charles W. Hadley, seeking the Republican nomination for attorney general at Chicago: "The New Deal administration has been keeping the people in the dark about what we may expect in the matter of additional taxation x x x until after election."

Otis F. Glenn, seeking the Republican nomination for United States Senator at Chicago: "They (the national administration) promised a reduction in bureaucracy and government expenditures. Instead of that, bureaucracy has increased enormously, as has the number of federal employees. Civil service regulations which the New Dealers promised to obey have been flagrantly violated."

Len Small, seeking the Republican nomination for governor at Chicago: "For every dollar now being raised in taxes, the government is spending two. It does not take an expert mathematician to figure out where this will land the nation, nor how taxes must skyrocket in order to pay off this deficit x x x."

Oscar E. Carlstrom, seeking the Republican nomination for governor at Chicago: "I believe in breaking down the control of relief and placing its responsibility for administration back on the local communities in cooperation with the church, civic and charitable institutions."

PRINCETON--BUREAU CO.

Princeton.—The fate of the Princeton Presbyterian church hangs in the balance as a committee, headed by Judge R. L. Russell, who was named its chairman at a meeting of church members last evening, will start solicitation of between $15,000 and $20,000 needed to replace the church edifice, which was destroyed by fire last month. The church has about $10,000 on hand. Judge Russell will name his assistants on the soliciting committee.

The Bureau county delegation of twenty returned last evening from the supreme court judicial convention at Peoria, in which they helped renominate Judge Clyde Stone, of Peoria, for the position he now holds on the supreme bench. The Bureau delegates voted by Stone on the first ballots, switching to Attorney Boole of Ottawa as the deadlock persisted, but later returned to Stone and stayed with him until his nomination.

Justice Stone will probably be opposed for the bench by State's Attorney Joseph T. Skinner of Bureau county, who is expected to announce himself early next week as the Democratic candidate for that place. Mr. Skinner has served two terms as prosecutor of Bureau county.

Conrad Dykes of this city expects soon to have a string of ice cream colonial cottages in operation. These cottages will be frame buildings, painted white with green shutters.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for Tom Cecil, 77, at his late home on South Main street. Mr. Cecil, well known farmer and extensive land owner, passed away Thursday at St. Frances hospital in Peoria. He was born at Sheffield, Nov. 3, 1858, and his entire life was spent in the vicinity of that place and Princeton.

Dr. K. M. Nelson and C. G. Heck will be candidates for re-election as members of the Princeton grade school board of education at the school election to be held here next Saturday.

Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next week.

Miss Mary McColl and Miss Nelle Bishop were Chicago visitors over the week-end.

Mrs. J. P. Chalmers of Dallas, Texas, a sister of Mrs. Milledge Newton was a guest for the first part of the week in the Newton home.

Next Sunday is Palm Sunday. It was a great day in the experience of Christ and His followers. It is, and ought to be a great day for us in this age of scientific and spiritual advancement.

His triumphant entry into Jerusalem on that day caused the masses of people to stand up and take notice. That is just the thing that ought to happen as a result of our meditation upon the Palm Sunday experience.

We should like to have our people respond in a great way for church attendance and worship tomorrow. It can be a great day for preparation for the full significance of Easter Sunday. Spring Comes to Washington

Only a few days ago huge chunks of ice whirled down the flooded Potomac—now the Japanese cherry trees burst into bloom to provide one of the capital's best-known spectacles. Above, blooming branches provide a picturesque frame for the dome of the Capitol.

Triplets Relax After Flood Debut

After arriving in a Leechburg, Pa., home from which flood waters had just receded, and probably concluding that their amazing new world was "all wet," Misses "A," "B," and "C" Hughes, 6½ pounds of blue-eyed girl triplets, are shown slumbering peacefully in a New Kensington, Pa., hospital, while Nurse Margaret Montgomery hovers watchfully over them. While the mites will be kept in incubators for another month or so, physicians told their mother, Mrs. Carson Hughes, 21, wife of a millworker, that the babies have an excellent chance of surviving.

Science Seeks to Conquer Desert

Reclamation of a vast man-made desert, a section of which is shown in the upper photo, is the aim of the U. S. Forest Service, and the progress it has made in seeking satisfactory trees and shrubs that will help restore lost fertility to the land is indicated in the lower photo. The area of 8000 acres, known as the Ducktown basin, in the heart of the richly forested Southern Appalachians in western North Carolina and eastern Tennessee, was denuded by lumbering operations and gases from copper smelters, which also have affected to a lesser degree nearly 50,000 acres adjoining the basin.

Florida Derby Victor Favored in Kentucky

Flashing across the finish line to equal Discovery's mile and an eighth world record of 1:43½ set a year ago, Joseph A. Widener's Brevity annexed the rich Florida Derby at Hialeah Park, and thereby became favorite in the winter books for the Kentucky Derby. The above picture shows the great colt winning going away, with Dneiper second and Bright Plumage third.

"Conscience" Fund Increased Today
Springfield, Ill., April 4.—(AP)—Because an unknown man could not forget that ten years ago he withheld taxes due the Federal government, Uncle Sam's "conscience fund" today was increased $185.

V. Y. Dallman, collector of internal revenue for the eighth Illinois district, said the "conscience money" came by a bank draft on a Champaign county bank—principal of $115 plus six per cent interest, for about ten years.

In a letter accompanying the payment the donor said the amount was for taxes withheld when he was in the theatrical business some years ago.

TOBY RYAN, 19, is a commercial model, posing for photographs to be used in advertisements. She shares an apartment with HARRIET HOLM, also a model.

At a charity style show Toby meets wealthy TIM JAMESON who showers her with attentions for a time. Tim leaves town for a few days, promising to call Toby as soon as he returns. The time stretches out and no word comes from him.

Toby spends a day "on location," making photographs to illustrate a magazine story. When she reaches home a letter is waiting for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXII
HARRIET, who was at the mirror coaxing her hair into soft waves, said, "There's a letter for you, Toby. It came in the afternoon mail."

Toby picked up the letter and for one breathless moment her heart soared. Then she saw the name on the corner of the envelope and the warm feeling that had surrounded her vanished. The letter wasn't from Tim. The name on the envelope was that of an advertising agency.

She said, "It's nothing very important, I guess," and tore open the envelope. There were two sheets inside, folded separately. The first bore the letterhead of the advertising agency. It read, briefly, that the enclosed letter had been received from a publication carrying their advertising and, since it seemed to be for Toby, they were forwarding it to her.

The second page was a sheet of pale pink notepaper, written in purple ink. Attached was a picture of Toby, cut from an advertisement. The picture was rather worn and had been folded so that a crease came directly down the center of her face. But it was Toby just the same.

She folded back the clipping and read: "Dear Dream Girl; I suppose you will be surprised to get this letter from someone you have never seen or heard of, but since I do not know where you are, writing this letter is the best I can do. I hope it will reach you, Dream Girl, for you are the one I have been searching for all my life. I have another picture like the one I am putting in this letter and I keep it in my watch and look at it many times a day."

"I would send you one of my pictures, but I do not have any that do me justice. Dream Girl, I have roved the world, but now I am ready to settle down in a little home and know that you are the one to share my lot. Will you please write to me and tell me your name and address? Until then I will just call you Dream Girl and count the days until I hear from you."

Ever lovingly,
Jonas Huckleberry.

Toby read it slowly, for some of the words were almost illegible. Then she said, "Why, Harriet—how ridiculous!"

"What's the matter, honey?" "This letter, it's perfectly crazy. Listen to this—"

She read the letter again, this time aloud. Harriet crossed the room and took it from her when she had finished. "It's a proposal," Harriet exclaimed. "Jonas Huckleberry wants you to marry him, Toby. He's asking you to share his lot—and it's not a fine one! I've had some fun with myself, but never anything to equal this. Well, darling, there's a husband if you want him."

Mrs. C. C. Winkle entertained the Kimball Household Science club at her home on Wednesday, after a forced postponement of two months, due to weather conditions and bad roads. Mrs. William Giblin and Mrs. G. W. Knapp, two members who passed away within the past few months, were memorialized by the club with church cards and flowers, as was also the passing of Mrs. Mary Dunphy, a neighbor. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Peter Winkler and Mrs. Eddie Schilpp served a delicious lunch which closed a pleasant afternoon.

"I certainly don't."

The other laughed. "You needn't take it so seriously," she said. "He'll never be able to find your name or address. Listen, honey, Clyde's going to be busy tonight. What do you say we see a movie together?"

Toby said, "Why, yes, I'd like to."

It was the afternoon of the following day. Howard Blane, junior member of the firm of Amberson and Blane, stood in the office of Al McCracken, ace copy writer of the advertising agency.

"I've just been talking to Ramsey," Blane said. "He'll have those tables of statistics over here this afternoon."

"Good," McCracken nodded. "I'll get to work on them as soon as they show up." He reached for a sheet of papers. "Here's the first draft of the Kimball Bakeries copy. Want to take a look at it?"

"Thanks," Blane took the bulky sheets and turned to go. Halfway to the door, he swung around and came back. "I thought we were ready to go ahead on that Hillyer soap series," he said confidentially. "But there's another delay. Hillyer wasn't satisfied with the model Joyce picked. That's the trouble with that place. Everything's got to be okayed by Hillyer himself. Talking to anyone else is just a waste of time."

"I shouldn't think it would be hard to find a model," McCracken said. "New York's full of them."

"I know—but finding one to suit Hillyer's another matter. He's got his own ideas. Wants a girl whose picture hasn't been used too much or associated with another product. One with freshness and charm. Unphotographed. The sort of girl who can hold a bar of soap in her hand and smile and make you think that, because she likes it, you'll like it, too."

"It's going to be a nice job for the girl who lands it. They're going to give her a contract and $1000 bonus to agree not to pose for any other soap manufacturer for a year. Of course, she'll be paid for all the posing she does, besides."

THERE was a sound in the doorway and both men turned. Bill Brandt stood there. He said, "Excuse me. I thought you were alone, Mr. McCracken."

"Did you finish that Bradley copy?" McCracken asked.

"Yes, I have it here."

"Leave it with me," McCracken said. "I'll go over it later and talk to you about it."

Bill gave him the typewritten sheets and returned to his own desk. He couldn't have avoided hearing what Blane had said about finding a model for the Hillyer soap advertisements. Everyone in the office knew what a big account that was. Back pages, in color, on the best known magazines in the country. One of the biggest jobs Amberson and Blane had ever landed.

Blane's words still rang in Bill's ears. "A girl whose pictures haven't been used too much . . . one with freshness and charm . . . who can hold a bar of soap in her hand and make you think that, because she likes it, you'll like it, too. . . . It's going to be a nice job for the girl who lands it."

On Bill's desk was a box of cough drops and a manuscript reviewing the history of the company manufacturing them. He was supposed to be reading that history. But Bill disregarded it, as well as the cough drops. He opened a drawer of his desk and took out several clippings. They were advertisements, cut from newspapers and magazines. In each there was a picture of a girl—the same girl.
